GENERAL TOWNSHEND'S DAUGHTER.

Miss Audrey Townshend, General Sir Charles Townshend's only daughter, who has just been married in Paris to Count Baudouin de Borchgrave, a Belgian, has come to England for her honeymoon. She and her husband left after the reception at the Paris house of Lady Townshend's parents—who belong to an old French family—and are now at Vere Lodge, Raynham, in Norfolk, the Townshend's country home. The English colony in Paris turned up in force at the wedding, which was a very fashionable and crowded one. Miss Townshend is a very pretty girl, vivacious, a good linguist, interested in art, and very fond of sport.
